- Volunteers will park in designated area near planting site.
- Please be aware that the area to be planted ranges from level to moderately steep. The ground is rocky and deeply furrowed with furrows over 1-foot deep. Persons considering volunteering must be able to navigate rough steep terrain for the better part of a day. Additionally, the temperature is typically cooler than surrounding areas and often quite windy.
- Recommended attire: work gloves, hat, layers of warm clothing, sturdy work or hiking boots, sun screen.
- All volunteers who are amenable to being photographed or video recorded must complete and return to the NPS a photo release form prior to the day of the event. The National Park Service, other agencies and the public media will be capturing images of volunteers performing reforestation activities at these events. To permit your image to be used, you should complete the enclosed form in advance.
- Sanitary facilities will be provided near the volunteer parking area

Cancellation Policy

If for medical reasons or an immediate emergency a volunteer should need to cancel, please e-mail flni_superintendent@nps.gov . Otherwise volunteers are expected to arrive on time for the event date they have pre-registered for.

Weather

The event is being held rain or shine. Please prepare to work outdoors through the weather. In the event of severe hazardous weather, the National Park Service reserves the right to cancel the event or postpone tree planting activities.
